

Abstract Of The Invention

INSAI

A communication system has a plurality of high altitude devices that are coupled to user terminals through a plurality of dynamic links. The terminal monitors and changes the multiple dynamic links as the position of the user terminal relative to the high altitude devices changes. The gateway terminal 5 transmits and receives to said user terminals through the high altitude devices using a plurality of datagrams.